Australia - Evangelist crusader Luis Toumbas damaging Australian farmers 21 Jul 2012

The first question we asked when the stories of Louis Toumbas began arriving down the news wires was, "Why would a property speculator feel the need to set up an evangelist web site" of course the answer is Money, money and more money.

Why would an evangelist try to close down one of the best abattoirs in Australia, leaving a thousand men and women unemployed and the answer is of course Money, money and more money.

"Fat" Luis Toumbas has a web site that gives you bible quotes. While indeed I respect anyone's religion, the bible must be taken in context and readings can be very misleading. For example if we take the bible literally we must "Stone to death"

- 1) All young people who have a tattoo
- 2) All farmers who put different breeds of cattle in the same field.
- 3) Anyone who wears garments weaved from different fabrics.
- 4) Anyone who commits adultery

So according to "Fat" Luis 95% of the population are doomed to a death by stoning. Fat Louis like Jimmy Swaggart and many before him is just lining his own pockets.

"Fat" Luis has another web site where he launches a attack on one of the world's best restaurants that employs close to 1,000 people.

It's a FAKE!

Just like his "Bible site" Fat Louis is dishonest and takes everything out of context.

Yes you can catch Q Fever from cattle in a meat plant, you can catch it from the family dog as well.

In essence what The Greek Cypriot is saying "You must not buy a new car because you may have an accident" or "if you go for a swim in our lovely Pacific Ocean you could drown".

We have learned that Fat Louis owns land across the road from the abattoir he is trying to close. His motives like his evangelistic work are lining his own pockets.

We are advising people who have made donations to Jimmy or invested in his companies to review their situations.
